ISSUED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING IN TIME FOR THE MAIL

PETITION BY THE MILE.

LONDON, July 30.—The Salvation Army marched to the Parliament building this morning and presented to the House of Commons a petition urging the immediate passage of the amended criminal act raising the age of consent in girls from 13 to 18 years. The petition contained 500,000 names, and is one mile and a half long. It was borne in a special carriage. The procession was very large, and halted on the Thames embankment, whence a deputation proceeded to the House of Commons to present the monster prayer. The procession was headed by a band followed by the Salvation Army officers on horseback. The petition was in a huge roll and was carried beneath a canopy erected in a vehicle drawn by four horses in the middle of the procession. The line of march was through the principal streets of London and the pageant attracted everywhere enormous crowds of people. In the House of Commons the case of the petition was entrusted to James Suff, Radical member for Hackney, long distinguished as an educational philantropist and champion of educational privileges for women. Mr. Suff at once introduced it to the commons. He said the petition asked parliament to raise the age of consent of girls from thirteen to eighteen was signed by 500,000 persons and there was such a peculiar feeling upon the subject that it had taken but seventeen days to obtain this enormous number of signatures. The vast roll was then moved up to the clerk's desk. He read the petition to the house, holding that part of the document in his hands, the bulk lying upon the floor and occupying most of the space in front of the speaker's table.

SIR CHARLES DILKE'S DIFFICULTY.

More is known by the American public, perhaps, about the Dilke scandal than by the public here, as not a word of it has yet been published here. The topic, however, is on everybody's lips. It is now said that an order for legal proceedings has been already filed. The story is that Mrs. Crawford, the wife of the officer of the local government board, on going to his house, discovered another woman waiting for him. Infuriated, she told her husband all about her own criminality. He threatened to shoot Dilke, and is determined to proceed immediately for a divorce. The possible disappearance of Dilke from the political horizon, explains Lord Harington's energetic Whig action.

Eastern Canada Mail.

(Per Northern Pacific Railway.)

MOSSIDE, July 28.—During a heavy thunderstorm last Friday John Macaulay, a highly respected farmer, was struck by lightning and instantly killed, his clothing being stripped from his body and his shoes torn to shreds. His two hired men, working close by, were also struck and rendered unconscious for some time.

MONTREAL, July 28.—It is announced here that about a month hence the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will open its whole telegraphic system throughout the Dominion to the service of the public, and that cables will soon be laid in connection with Japan, China, and Australia from the Pacific coast. The press here is rejoicing at the near prospect of the telegraph monopoly being at an end. It is publicly stated that the Western Union Company used its utmost efforts through Jay Gould to get control of the Canadian Pacific lines, but their propositions were peremptorily refused. The Canadian Pacific is understood to have made connection in the United States, so as to be able to do business all over the American continent.

WORSE AND WORSE.

HOW IT IS THAT STATISTICS SHOW AN INCREASE OF CRIME.

Acts Not Formerly Classed as Criminal Now Illegal—Increase of Facilities for Detection—The "Enterprise" of the Modern Newspaper.

[Chicago Times.]

The census reports certainly do show that the proportion of population confined in penitentiaries and various reformatory institutions is increasing from decade to decade with fearful rapidity. We must remember, however, that many acts are now classed as criminal that were not so regarded a generation or two ago. Then lotteries were encouraged in almost every state in the union. Now it is a crime not only to sell lottery tickets but to advertise a lottery scheme. Then any person could sell cigars and tobacco as he may now sell cloth and potatoes, but now it is a crime to deal in them without a license or to sell them if they are not accompanied with a revenue stamp. Then there were no convictions for selling intoxicating liquors to minors or habitual drunkards, but now such convictions are very common. Teachers are now punished for "correcting" children in school. New crimes are created by statute every time the national congress or a state legislature meets. The number of nominal criminals is increased by adding new crimes to the calendar.

The facilities for detecting crimes and for arresting criminals are much better and more numerous than they were even a few years ago. The microscope has been improved and new chemical tests have been discovered. Photography has greatly aided the arrest and conviction of criminals by furnishing the likeness of nearly every person belonging to the acknowledged criminal class. In every considerable town the police department have a large and well-arranged "rogues' gallery." As new pictures are taken, duplicates are sent to every city in the country. The illustrated papers have made the faces of the more noted criminals familiar to almost every person. The daily papers give very accurate descriptions of the men who make their escape after the commission of a crime. Not only the railroad car and the steamboat but the telegraph and telephone are employed in the arrest of persons implicated in the commission of crime. The governor of nearly every state has been authorized to offer, at his discretion, large rewards for the arrest and detention of persons presumed to be guilty of crime.

The public detective force has been extended and greatly improved during the past thirty years. During the same period the private detective system has been extended, till now it is the terror of criminals. Escape from justice by flight has been rendered almost impossible, whereas it was very easy before the era of steam and electricity. The criminal courts have come to look upon flight as confession. In nearly every section of the country the elevated moral sentiment of the community demands the arrest of parties implicated in crimes at any cost. They are accordingly followed over the continent and brought back from countries beyond the seas. With no more crimes committed, we should expect to find a much larger number of persons confined in prisons.

When a large portion of the country was sparsely settled and the means of conveying information were poor, thousands of crimes were committed that were never reported to the public. The persons committing them found little difficulty in making their escape, and were not likely to be pursued and captured. Their names never appeared to swell the list of offenders confined in penitentiaries. Newspapers then displayed little "enterprise" in collecting criminal news. It was very difficult and expensive to do so. The newspaper, in the proper sense of the word, is a very modern institution. It had its rise with the introduction of the means for the rapid transmission of intelligence. It gives an account of more crimes and of more charities than the old-time paper did. The science of statistics as well as the art of making newspapers has made its greatest progress during the last thirty years. It becomes easier every year to show by statistics that the world is growing wicked and society is becoming more demoralized.

The Emptiness of Existence.

[Drake's Travelers' Magazine.]

Dumley (with an appetite for breakfast)—Oh, Jane, you may bring me a bit of the steak; not too well done, please.

Jane—Shure, an' there's no steak, sor.

Dumley—What? I certainly smell steak.

Jane—It's from the boardin' house next door, sor.

Landlady—Jane, you had better shut the window now. The room is getting a little chilly.

A Great Advantage.

[New York Times.]

Young Wife (just home from the cooking school)—I feel so encouraged. Miss Parloa complimented me on my progress to day. But poor Miss Smith! I am real sorry for her. She tries hard, but she doesn't seem to get on at all.

Young Husband—You must remember, my dear, that Miss Smith has no one to practice on.

New Material for Models.

[Scientific Exchange.]

An excellent material for models, lately discovered, consists of powdered cork mixed with starch and water, and the mass thoroughly kneeded and mixed at boiling heat, then poured into moulds and dried at a high heat. It comes out in whatever ornamental shape the artist desires.

Another Sign of Progress.

[Exchange.]

People move to Colorado to find a dry air; furnaces have a water pan in them to keep the air moist—from which practices it is easy to perceive the progress made of late years by popular sciences.

Wanted a Long Cigar.

[Boston Transcript.]

"No," said the gifted young gentleman, "I want none of your short cigars. Give me a good long one, one that will last half an hour at the shortest." "Ah, I understand!" quoth the tobacconist, "you are going to take the cars, and you intend, of course, to enter at the rear of the train and pass through all the cars in a slow and dignified manner, shedding the aroma of your imperfectly combusted cigar like a benison around you. You fear that the cigar will not hold out until you have reached the smoking-car. Noble young man, take this. It is of goodly length, and its fragrance is as enduring as old-fashioned hand-made furniture."

Midgets at the Restaurant.

[New York Journal Interview.]

It is wonderful what good appetites the miniature people have. Tom Thumb ate more than Chang, the Chinese giant. Any of the little folk will eat as much dinner as a man six feet high. Giants, as a rule, have small appetites. When we boarded Chang at one of the large hotels here they thought he would eat a great deal, and so they charged him as much as if he were three men. Instead of going through the bill of fare from beginning to end and then repeating, he ate no more than the average boarder. "Hungry Joe" could eat more at a cold lunch than Chang could in a whole week. It took three beds, however, to make one bed for him to sleep in, and so we did not complain at paying $9 a day for his board.

I knew a very grotesque-looking South American dwarf, who used to be exhibited as a wild man without language who fed on raw meat, and who was incapable of understanding even signs. Well, after the exhibition was through every night that dwarf used to go over to a restaurant and order all the French dishes on the bill of fare, read a Spanish newspaper, talk French to the waiters, and ask questions of Americans in fluent English. He had an enormous appetite. He didn't weigh much, but he ate like an elephant. He used to polish off three apple dumplings for dessert.

Some of the miniature men have been jolly good fellows. I have known some of them who could have put a whole company under the table drinking beer.

He Drank the Hair Dye.

(Andre Laroche.)

He found his hair was leaving him at the top of his head, and took his barber to task about it. "You sold me two bottles of stuff to make the hair grow." "It is very strange it won't grow again," said the modern Figaro, "I can't understand it." "Look here," said Calino, "I don't mind drinking another bottle, but this must be the last."

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 pounds." Call at LANGLEY & Co.'s drug store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles, $1. 3dw of danger by the condition of your blood, as shown in pimples, blotches, boils, or discolorations of the skin; or by a feeling of languor, induced, perhaps, by inactivity of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, you should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will renew and invigorate your blood, and cause the vital organs to properly perform their functions. If you suffer from or Neuralgia, a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will relieve and cure you. Alice Kendall, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass., writes: "I have been troubled with Neuralgia, pain in the side, and weakness, and have found greater relief from Ayer's Sarsaparilla than from any other remedy." J. C. Tolman, 336 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "In no other remedy have I ever found such a happy relief from Rheumatism as in

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, there need be no fear of Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Catarrh, Liver troubles, or any of the diseases arising from Scrofulous taints in the blood. Geo. Garwood, Big Springs, Ohio, writes: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has been used in my family for a number of years. I was a constant sufferer from but Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a permanent cure. Seven years ago my wife was troubled with Goitre: two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured her, and she has never had any return of the disease. I regard this preparation as the best medicine in use for the blood." B. Barnard Wair, 75 Adams st., Lynn, Mass., writes: "For many years I suffered terribly from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Scrofula. Almost hopeless, I took Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and am a well man to-day." Be sure and get Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most thorough and effective blood purifier. The best is the cheapest.

THE CONSPIRACY SCENTED.

There was a new hand at the bellows in the Times office last night, and he blew a mighty blast through the nozzle of the windy instrument which our evening friend so often calls into action against his opponents. The new hand's flatulent effort is directed at the school trustees, and like all blowhards he is inaccurate. The entire article is based upon false premises. There is scarcely a statement that is not untrue. He starts by saying that none will "assert that the fact of her (Miss Armstrong) being a comparative stranger should be a bar to her selection." What have certain correspondents of the Times been raving about for the past few days? Have they not repeatedly asserted that British Columbians only are entitled to the positions in the schools? Was it not that absurd position that called out the admirable letter of "Many Canadians" which no one has successfully answered yet? Instead of the Times announcing that "none will assert," etc., it ought to have written that all have asserted that their only objection to Miss Armstrong is that she is one of those dreadful 'Canadians who have lately managed by some means to climb over the Chinese wall which the Times and its writers had erected (in their imaginations) around the province with the object of corraling all the good things and fat offices for themselves and their relatives. The bellows-man next says that the trustees advertised "that all applicants must possess a certain pre-requisite termed in Ottawa the legal requirement." This is another inaccuracy. The advertisement laid down no such stipulation Here is a copy of the advertisement:

VICTORIA CITY PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Written applications for the position of Principal of the Girls' Department Victoria City Public School, will be received by the undersigned until 6 p. m. of Thursday, the 23rd instant.

CHAS. HAYWARD,
Secretary Board of Trustees.

Further on the writer "lets the cat out of the bag" by ingenuously acknowledging, "the appointment beyond question is the most unpopular one that has ever been made in this city, not against Miss Armstrong personally, but in hostility to the trustees." Practically, then, no objection that will hold good can be urged against Miss Armstrong. The tirades of abuse which have been leveled at her through the Times and kindred organs were meant to react boomerang like upon the trustees. Miss Armstrong is suffering vicariously, so that certain scribblers who dare not write over their own petty names may take a shy at the trustees. Would it not be a more manly course if the writer should attack the trustees (who are well able to protect themselves), and cease to discuss the lady and her affairs? As a rule, we are averse to dragging the names of ladies into a newspaper controversy. We have referred to Miss Armstrong with reluctance, and as the Times has referred to Mrs Reid in a pointed manner, we have no alternative but to state the facts in connection with that lady's candidature. The Times asserts that four members were in favor of that lady—that she "became the favorite." As four constitute a majority, how did it happen that Mrs. Reid is not today principal of the girls' school? The truth, however, is that Mrs. Reid did not at any time command a sufficient vote to create a tie; only once did she receive a third of the votes, and after that only a sixth. The next statement, that Mrs Reid ranks as first-class grade "A" is another untruth. The certificate, as published by the superintendent of education, shows that Mrs. Reid holds a first class grade "B." After having asserted that there is no opposition to Miss Armstrong, we are surprised to come across a sentence which arraigns Miss Armstrong as "a complete stranger, untried as a teacher." Miss Armstrong is a stranger, and, as we have already stated, that is the only reason her appointment is being so bitterly opposed. All the rest is claptrap; and as for the statement that she is "untried as a teacher," that is another Times falsehood. Miss Armstrong's certificates show that she taught for three years in Ontario, after which she entered the Port Hope model school as a student and graduated from that institution with honors. The concluding remarks of the Times about political influence having been exerted to secure the appointment is unworthy even that publication. This last statement is like the top, middle, side and foot of the superstructure which our evening contemporary has reared—untrue; and here we leave the subject with the consciousness that results will soon demonstrate that the board have made a selection which will be advantageous to the schools and creditable to the trustees.

CANADIAN HORSES.

A point well worthy the attention of the imperial authorities was referred to by Lord Melgund at a meeting of the Royal United Servic institution which was held recently. A lecture had been given on the occasion by Colonel F. S. Russell upon the subject of remounts for the cavalry and artillery, and in the discussion which ensued Lord Melgund spoke of the value of Canadian horses for light cavalry purposes, showing that they were both plentiful and cheap. He thought it would be advantagous, in fact, if the imperial government were to establish a depot in Canada for the purpose of purchasing and training horses for military purposes. Colonel Kingscote and Rear-Admiral Arthur endorsed this view, which will be fully confirmed by all who have any acquaintance with the Canadian horse trade. A similar suggestion has, indeed, been thrown out in one or two quarters before now, but hitherto it does not seem to have obtained the careful consideration to which it is entitled.

SIR LEONARD TILLEY.

Much uneasiness is felt at Ottawa over Sir Leonard Tilley's health. He had sufficiently recovered from the operation performed in London to leave his bed only a week previous to his departure from England, and although he seemed to gain strength on the sea voyage home, the railway journey from Rimouski caused so considerable a relapse that he was compelled to remain over at Quebec for several hours, and accomplished the passage to Montreal by steamer. Since his arrival in Ottawa, Sir Leonard has been prostrated by a severe attack of dysentery and has been obliged to remain in bed. It was proposed that he should travel by easy stages to his home in St. Andrews, but his condition has forbidden his starting. Fears generally expressed that Canada's great financier is about to succumb to his ailments.

CONSERVATIVE POLICY.

Lord Salisbury made a magnificent speech at the lord mayor's banquet the other evening. He eulogized the policy of the late Lord Beaconsfield in dealing with the Afghan question. That policy was to establish a scientific frontier for India, and after that to claim nothing more, but to accept nothing less. He hoped than when the next lord mayor's banquet was held the conservatives would be able to show peace with Russia and the prosperity of Egypt secured.

YESTERDAY'S DISPATCHES.

IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Aug. 6.—Detectives have now ascertained that Robt. Farquharson, the defaulting Dublin manager of the Munster bank sailed for Spain on the night of his flight from this city.

GERMANY.

BERLIN, Aug 6.—The Cologne Gazette publishes an article similar to the one which recently appeared in the North German Gazette. It advises the maintenance of friendship between England and Germany and warns France against a policy of revenge.

FRANCE.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Newspapers continue to comment upon the recent articles in the North German Gazette, attacking France. They all consider that article foreshadows the increase of German military strength, and that it was addressed to the Reichstag rather than to France.

The Cologne Gazette contends that the North German Gazette will strain the friendship between Germany and England by warning France against a policy of revenge.

AUSTRIA.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A dispatch from Vienna to the Telegraph says that Austria has formally notified the United States government that Keily is not acceptable as American minister to Austria, and has expressed the hope that he will be recalled and another appointment made.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Admirals Hewitt, Hoskins and Hopkins, declared at the banquet given by the Empire club last night, that the British navy, despite its failings, was equal to those of any other two nations combined. Europe is full of rumors concerning the coming meeting of the emperors and their premiers. The latest report is that the Marquis of Salisbury and Prince Bismarck will meet at Varsein.

DELAYED DISPATCHES

SPAIN.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—A terrible incident connected with the cholera epidemic is reported from Spain. A priest who had labored zealously among the stricken people finally was prostrated by the scourge himself. The disease passed through all its regular stages, and the priest apparently died. The frightened people who were about him made only a hasty examination of the body, and placed it in a coffin, screwed down the lid and left it over night, to be buried next day. When the bearers came in the morning to remove the body a fearful sight presented itself. The coffin had been upset, and had fallen from the table to the floor, and the body was twisted around and partially doubled up, showing that it had been writhing in mortal agony. The face was appalling in its expression of hopeless horror, and the hands were bleeding. It is feared that many cases of premature burial may have occurred during the present epidemic, in consequence of great fright among the people, which causes them to get rid of the dead at the earliest possible moment.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Sir Charles Dilke's friends are assiduously and loyally spreading a strong denial of the divorce scandal reports and insist that there is not a word of truth in the rumor. The denials are not believed even by Dilke's political associates.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The act making medical men who examine girls for immoral purposes liable to two years' imprisonment was negatived by a vote of 115 to 50. The bill was passed in committee.

CANADA.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Representatives of the different insurance companies met yesterday afternoon and compared their figures as to the insurance upon the buildings destroyed by fire. It is ascertained that besides a large number of risks held by fire insurance associations, the amount of which cannot yet be ascertained, there was insurance of $190,000 upon the buildings burned. The loss by fire is estimated at $750,000.

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—The fate of Riel was the leading topic of conversation yesterday. Many French Canadians express the opinion that his condemnation was a preconcerted affair, and that the judge was not impartial in his rulings. Some of the more rabid declare that the government dare not bring Riel to the scafe fold. They also say that petitions will be signed asking for Riel's pardon on the ground that the rebellion was justifiable. Subscription lists are being rapidly filled to secure funds to enable him to make an immediate appeal.

CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson, a well-known authoress and contributor to the Century magazine, is lying in this city at the point of death.

Sarah Althea called at the office of Mayor Bartlett this morning, and asked for a permit to carry a pistol. The mayor informed her that he had no power to grant such a request, and she left with the remark: "Oh, very well. I will carry a pistol anyhow. I intend to protect myself from that Sharon crowd."

H. J. Kowalski, one of the counsel for the defense in the Sharon suit, was arrested to-day for libel, on complaint of David S. Terry. Terry considers himself libelled by the statement made by Kowalski in a report to the Post, in which Terry was said to once have attempted to assassinate Hopkins, and to have murdered Broderick.

RAMBLING NOTES.

Steamboat, Rail, Cayuse and Stage.

A Trip Through Cache Creek and Bonaparte Valleys.

The Cache creek valley demonstrates the wonderful productiveness of the soil of the interior where irrigation is possible, and proves that where farming is practically and scientifically prosecuted it can be made to pay. East of the Stewart ranche is that of one of the most extensive and wealthy stock owners of British Columbia. This we were unable to visit.

On Saturday evening at 7 o'clock the writer boarded a homely cayuse and started for Clinton, 26 miles from Cache creek, and almost immediately his troubles commenced. There is probably no animal provided with a greater amount of "sheer cussedness" than the homely cayuse, and if he finds that he has a passenger, one who is unacquainted with his his propensities, the unfortunate individual is sure to come to grief. Starting from Campbell's hotel the second bridge was crossed with little trouble, but once out on the open road, the cayuse showed a disposition to go in every direction but straight ahead. Unfortunately for its rider, he was neither provided with spurs nor whip, and the first two miles he laboriously by kicking his heels into the animal's ribs. A happy thought struck him—it would have struck any other rider a great deal quicker—and coming to a clump of willows a stout stick was procured, which was used to such good effect that the refractory animal made quick time along the road, though grumbling considerably at the effort. Phil Parke's ranche has been passed, the Indian reservation, and the writer for the first time is on the Cariboo road with not a sign of life in sight, the silvery moon casting long shadows from the trees lining the hills, the Bonaparte river winding beneath the road, filling the evening air with.

"WORKED HIS PASSAGE"

MUSICAL MURMURINGS.

The night was beautifully clear, and the atmosphere cool, so that riding was rendered a pleasurable pastime. At about nine o'clock Wm. Cargyle's hotel was reached, a long two-story frame building, situated at the point where the new Hat creek, or Marble canon road, is being constructed. This road will give the Pavilion mountain ranchers a shorter route to the railway, and will be twenty-five miles from Cargyle's to Lillooet, saving a distance of about fifty miles over the previous route via Cariboo road to Clinton, and thence over Pavilion mountain to Lillcoet. About six miles had been finished last week, and Mr. Harkins, the contractor, is credited with making a first-class roadway.

MR. CARGYLE

is one of the old pioneers, having crossed the mountains to Cariboo in 1859, and for the past four years has been running the hotel at this point. After a pleasant chat with the old miner and trader, a retirement for the night is made, and an early start in the morning premeditated. A substantial breakfast is partaken of, our cayuse is brought to the door, and in a few minutes we dash over the bridge around the curve at the hill, past the green fields of the ranch, the morning air being pleasantly bracing. Our animal travels well, though he will grumble somewhat. A roadside house is passed on the glad Sunday morning one of the three men sitting at the door being busily engaged in skinning a mink which are numerous along the Bonaparte creek. Mandorf's, 124 Mile House, is reached at 9 o'clock, where our horse is watered and we rest a few minutes. The crops on the ranches all along have been most excellent. This year the farmers of the Cache creek and Bonaparte valleys have been specially favored with rain, which also made the water plenty in the creek. The hills where wooded are bright and green with luxuriant grass, the trees not being very numerous making the gradual slope of the hillside in places present a park-like appearance. Leaving Mandorf's we pass through a very pretty stretch of road, along ranches of large extent, past chains of little lakes, which are used for irrigation purposes. Dougherty's, Allan's and Mitchell's ranches are all bright with the growing crops and sweet with new mown hay. Our cayuse had been

and reaching a shady spot a rest is given him under the spreading trees. It is now 10:30 and the sun is very hot. Mosquitos and flies swarm round us in myriads, the horse-fly being specially annoying. This fly is about the size of a wasp and has a probosis with a barbed end. This it inserts into the horses flesh, and after sucking its fill spurts the blood out in a large drop. Fortunately these pests only last about two weeks, but in that time they pester stock to a great extent, driving them from place to place, and worrying them to such a degree that it keeps them poor in flesh. Having rested our animal long enough, we again mount and try to move him, but he won't budge. The whip is laid on, but he only shows a disposition to send its rider over its head. He is kicked and whipped and urged, but will not start. To a good horseman this would not be startling, but the writer thought himself in a bad strait. Getting off the cayuse, and untying the halter, by sheer force he is drawn to the road, but will not move a step. Procuring a club, the animal is given a liberal beating, and is at last induced to move; but considers every step, and comes down with a jerk that is unpleasant. This was and it occupied two hours of one of the hottest days of summer to get there. All along the road are greater or lesser lakes, and a mile from Clinton a considerable lake is passed, formerly a large hay meadow. At last the houses of Clinton greet our sight, and we wearily labor down the hill and across the plain to the one street, and with a feeling of thankfulness dismount at the Dominion hotel, the first met with. The cayuse and its unfortunate rider are soon housed, and after a first-class meal and a wash a better feeling with the world exists, and a trip through the famous mining village is taken.

The Chinese Interpreter.

TO THE EDITOR:—"Fair Play" in his answer to "Scrutator" seems to be very much exercised about the interpreter that is to be appointed being a citizen, certainly, if possible, he should be; but the principle involved appears to me to be to secure justice. The experience of the judges and juries on this coast, and the testimony published in the Chinese commission report proves that it is almost impossible to arrive at the truth in any case where the interests of the Chinese are involved. The restrictive act was passed in the interest of the British race living in the Dominion of Canada and directly against any further importation of Chinese. The Chinese have therefore a direct and immediate interest in defeating the operation of the act. Therefore, to select a person to fill the position of interpreter who is by race, business, education and personal feelings interested in making the act inoperative, is certainly not consistent with the principle of the act, and is calculated to convince the people of the eastern provinces that the opposition of British Columbia to the Chinese is all humbug. That may possibly be the object of the promoters of the position in favor of Mr. Cumyow, the opposition to whom is not caused by any desire to secure the appointment of any particular individual to the position, but to secure that impartial administration of justice for which British courts are proverbial. If the legislature of this province passed a law for the suppression of crime, and then selected criminals as the proper persons to enforce the law could they complain if the public charged them with pander to the criminal class in the case, therefore, to appoint as one of the principal officers whose duty it is to enforce the act, one whose feelings must naturally be opposed to the enforcement of the act must of necessity result in defeating in a measure the principles contained in said act, and is in direct opposition to the overwhelming and often expressed wish of the people of this province. "Fair Play" seems to hold the opinion that a Chinaman, because he was accidentally born in this province is preferable, and will discharge his duty more faithfully than an American who has the highest testimonials of personal integrity, which must be very gratifying to any Americans who have signed the petition in favor of Mr. Cumyow. "Fair Play" may be surprised to learn that there are many in this community who do not hold such opinions, but it is not necessary to have either, as there are Englishmen in the customs service in the province of Canton as capable as either of the gentlemen named who could, without doubt, be secured to fill the position. But if a just and impartial enforcement of the law is desired, instead of an interpreter appointed by the government who, holding an independent position, might fit himself to thwart the controller in the discharge of his duty, the position of interpreter were subject to the controller, and if he be held responsible for the interpreter it would tend to close the loopholes which will be otherwise liable to occur in the enforcement of the act. Put a thoroughly competent man in the office of controller, give him the power he ought to have, and then hold him to a strict account, and we should be able to secure if not "fair play" at least JUSTICE.

The Collision Inquiry.

TO THE EDITOR:—With reference to the statement appearing in the newspapers of yesterday regarding the testimony given at the coroner's inquest, I beg to say that the evidence given by the captain and quartermaster of the Rithet as to the circumstances attending the cause of damage to the mast and wheel-house of the Enterprise, the position of mate at time of collision, and myself going aboard in a boat, are all and all entirely opposed to fact, as will be shown in subsequent evidence in another court.

THE ENQUIRY INTO THE RECENT COLLISION.

Several New Witnesses Examined and Important Testimony Given.

The official examination into the collision of the Rithet and Enterprise was commenced yesterday before Captains Lewis and Devereaux and Mr. Farquhar. Captain Insley, the mate and quarter-master Randall were examined and gave a repetition of the evidence published in The Colonist yesterday.

Robert MacIver being sworn deposed—I was engineer of the Enterprise at the time of the accident I joined her Monday morning and the collision took place on Tuesday. I was in charge of the engine at the time, and was standing on the ladder leading to the engine room about five feet from the throttle, when I heard a bell to slow; I immediately placed my hand on the throttle and closed it; at that instant the bell rang to stop her and a few seconds after I felt the collision; the next moment the steam came up and filled the engine room so that I could not see; my fireman was standing by and I told him to follow me; I went up to the hurricane deck and opened the safety valve to prevent any danger of an explosion from the cold water coming in contact with the boiler; somebody on the Rithet called out MacIver save yourself I think it was Captain Rudlin, he was on the Rithet; I then went on top of the Enterprise pilot house and catching hold of the jib halliard of the Rithet swung myself aboard that steamer; I proceeded aft to the engine room and shook hands with the engineer and said Kennedy this is pretty quick work; he shook his head but did not say anything; I then went forward and helped three men aboard the Rithet; proceeded aboard the Enterprise and looked in the cabin; there was no one there; I found a man sitting near the steam drum in an arm chair, he was intoxicated and his feet were in the water which was about two feet deep on the deck; I told him it was no place for him; he said he was all right; I helped him aboard the Rithet; I then went to my room and got my clothes; think it was half an hour after the collision before the two boats drew apart and the Enterprise sunk; I would not swear to seeing Captain Rudlin, nor did I see any passengers in the water; I am at present engineer of the Yosemite; have a first class engineers certificate.

Henry F. Bishop, being sworn, deposed: I was purser of the steamer Enterprise; just before the collision I was at my desk writing, when I heard the Rithet whistle and the Enterprise answer; I do not know who was in wheel house at the time; as soon as the boats struck I went aft; I heard screams and cries of "Look out;" I placed some life preservers on the ladies; one lady refused a life preserver because she thought it would spoil her dress; I did not see Captain Rudlin on the boat, and there was no one in charge of passengers but myself; there were sufficient life preservers for all; I went on the deck and jumped overboard, at the same time throwing a stick of wood to a passenger in the water; I was picked up by one of the Rithet's boats, and went to assist some of the passengers from the Enterprise boats; she was about the usual distance from shore; I heard the engine bells ring; I had ninety-one passengers aboard, about ten of them ladies; think it was more than fifteen minutes that the two boats were locked together; I saw Captain Rudlin after I got aboard the Rithet.

Stuart Keenan, being sworn, deposed: I was deckhand on the Enterprise at the time of the accident and was on the forward gangway on the port side; when I saw they were going to strike I ran aft and tried to get into my room; then ran forward and climbed on the Rithet; I was at the wheel of the Enterprise when I first saw the Rithet, half a mile away, but was relieved just before the collision; I went to the wheel of the Enterprise at 5 minutes past 11 and left it about 1:15; as I came out of the pilot house the captain went in; we saw the Rithet coming; the captain and mate were both in the wheelhouse when I left, and three minutes after the collission took place; the Rithet blew one whistle, the Enterprise answered; after the collision I jumped overboard from the Rithet to save Mr. Bishop, who was struggling in the water; there was no one on the Enterprise to give orders; the mate was jammed between the capstan of the Rithet and the wreckage of the Enterprise; I tried to pull him out, but he was so bruised I was afraid of hurting him; I saw the Rithet take a sheer toward the Enterprise, and said, "What's the matter with that fellow? he is going to run into us!"

Edward McDonald testified to assisting in loosening one of the boats and assisting the passengers to get aboard the Rithet, and that he saw Captain Rudlin on the guard of the Rithet and that there was no one on the Enterprise to give orders.

Adjourned to 10 o'clock this morning.

County Court.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

Hutchinson & Co. vs. H. P. Morgan. Suit to recover $157.81, for goods sold. Judgment for plaintiff, execution not to issue without permission of the Court. E. M. Johnson for plaintiff.

Leslie vs. Higgins. An action brought by the plaintiff, H. H. Leslie, an architect, to recover the sum of $447.40 from D. W. Higgins. The claim was for plans and specifications furnished by Leslie for a new residence, which the defendant proposed building at Regent Park.

Henry H. Leslie, sworn, testified that Mr. Higgins came to his office in March to look at plans; the first plan shown was for a house that would cost $4,000; this was too small, and he was shown one prepared for Mr. Humphreys which witness said would cost $7,000; he was satisfied with it and told me to show it to Mrs. Higgins, who examined the plan and suggested some alterations; prepared a rough sketch of the building which was again submitted to Mrs Higgins; she was pleased with the new plan and suggested some further alterations which were made; I then showed them to Mr. Higgins; he gave me instructions to have the plans made, and seemed to be in a hurry, and as they progressed was pleased with them; he came on the 10th April, and asked as to the time he could advertise for tenders; he hurried the specifications and tenders were advertised for on Saturday and Sunday mornings; took the tenders to Mr. Higgins who opened them, and he did not seem dissatisfied with the price which was $6,240, not including the work reserved, which amounted to about $1,500; Mr. Hamilton sent in his tender by his foreman; Mr. Higgins said he would consider the matter and in a week or two witness called on him, when he said he would like to defer the building for some time, as he thought it was folly to build until the war excitement was over; he did not care about putting so much money in a house; in a couple of weeks he again called on Mr. Higgins, and he asked witness to sketch another plan to cost about $6,000; this he did and submitted it to Mrs. Higgins, who made a slight change in it, putting a partition through a large room; she stated that the first plan would have suited her best, but she supposed she would have to be content with the second; my instructions were to please Mrs. Higgins; Mr. Higgins instructed me to call for tenders without advertising; this I did and the lowest tender of the second plan was higher than that of the first; I let the tender and called on Mr. Higgins to get some money, and he asked me how much I wanted; I stated $300; he got in a rage and stated that that was more than was due me by commission on the second plan; he also told me that if I expected to get the amount I was a fool; I again went to him and he asked to let a copy of the specifications be made; this I refused; and he stated that he would go to court and compel me to hand over the plans; he also forbid me entering his grounds, and gave Mr. Munro instructions to proceed with the work; this I considered as my dismissal; [a letter sent witness by Drake, Jackson & Helmcken, asking for the delivery of the plans, was read, which witness stated he had not read; two other letters were also read showing the amounts claimed by plaintiff.] Witness, continuing, stated that his instructions were in the second plan to get up a house worth about $6,000; the tender accepted was one for $6,240, which he recommended, though there were other lower tenders; he then built a fence. [Detailed drawings of the plans were here shown to the jury to give ideas of the work done on plans. These were in large sheets about eight feet in length, and were exhibited by plaintiff and counsel.] Continuing, the witness stated that Mr. Higgins made a proposition at one time to settle the matter; this was after the action was commenced; he asked me to throw all prejudices aside, but that I need not expect the full amount of the first plan; it is usual that the plans are to be used by the owner until the building is completed, when they become again the property of the architect; the second plan was entirely new from that of the first; it is usual that 2½ per cent. is paitl on signing the contract, and the balance when the building is complete; he might take eight or ten weeks to finish the various plans and drawings; Mr. Higgins stated that he was well pleased with the plans.

To Mr. Drake—Have been an architect for about two years; have had some trouble with contractors; how many cases, can't say; Mr. Higgins did not state on the first plans that the limit was to be $6,000; neither did Mrs. Higgins on the first plan; never told Mr. Higgins what the building would cost; after the floor plans were submitted I stated that the building would cost about $7,500; some of the work was reserved. Mr. Higgins was to provide the hot air furnace, tiles, grates and mantels, which were to be extra; Mr. T. B. Humphreys' house was limited to $5,000, but cost $7,000; this house was arranged to be built by a man from Portland by day work, though tenders were advertised for as a blind; this was not a usual thing to do with architects; but they were placed in peculiar positions sometimes by employers; he had stated to Mr. Higgins that he would do it for 4 per cent; he had told him that if his influence was given to secure witness other buildings he would do it for 4 per cent., but Mr. Higgins said he would only have it done at the usual cost, 5 per cent.; Mr. Higgins had never complained about the high price; tracings of the second floor were shown, when one room was cut into two and marked 11x17 each, when it should have been 8 ft. 6 in. by 17 ft.; this was altered after the contract was signed; the contractor drew my attention to it; the detailed drawings were altered after the letting of the contract; the fence built was a good job; it was examined by him; the certificate shown was written by witness, giving cost of fence; the fence was standing four or five weeks; he wanted it painted before it got set; he had some conversation with Mr. Higgins before the action was taken; charged McB. Smith 5 per cent.; Mr. Jones jewed me down to 4 per cent.; the specifications are similar in many respects to Mr. Humphreys'.

To Mr. Mills—The trouble with one contract was through Mr. Lawson the contractor who failed and was brought before the court; furnished Mr. Munro the additional details and drawings; he is now working on my plans; never received a cent for the work; merely carried out Mr. Humphreys' instructions in getting the building erected by day work.

Thos. Trounce, sworn, said he was an architect and builder here for 27 years; the charge for preparing plans was five per cent; 2½ per cent. when contract is signed; the charge for detail drawings and superintendence was 2½; when the superintendence was done by the owner 1¼ per cent. was charged for detail drawings; it had been his custom to charge five per cent; the plans belong to the architect. Witness examined the two sets of plans and stated that they were distinct plans; he thought a builder could work from them; it was the custom to charge 2½ per cent. even if the contract was not let, and he would consider that he was owed 2½ per cent. on each plan.

Mr. S. C. Burris, architect, corroborated the points in the previous witness' statements.

To the Judge—Would consider that there was as much trouble in making the second plan as the first; the one plan would not materially assist in arranging the other.

Mr. McB. Smith testified that in conversation with defendant the latter had asked him who was it that built his house and I told him Mr. Leslie; Mr. Higgins afterwards said he had hired Mr. Leslie and expressed himself pleased with his plan.

E. P. Hamilton testified Mr. Higgins had in conversation asked him to tender on the work; his price was $6,240; he had been requested to put in a bid on the second plans.

To Mr. Drake—My first figure was too low; my second tender was $8,028, which included reserved work; without reserved work it would amount to $6,240; the plans were distinct.

This closed the case for the plaintiff.

Mr. Drake in opening the defendant's case, stated that Mr. and Mrs. Higgins had over and over again stated to the architect that $6,000 was the limit; the first plan would have cost $9,000; the architect was requested to modify the plan; several pieces were omitted from the plan, and the second was about the limit; but Mr. Higgins took the ground that the plaintiff was only entitled to be paid his commission on the second plan, and that he should be recouped for extra expense entailed through defective plans.

The first witness called was D. W. Higgins, who testified that Mr. Humphreys recommended Mr. Leslie, and witness had called on Mr. Leslie who showed him plans and a photograph of a house; asked Mr Leslie the cost of the house shown in photograph, and he answered $11,000; told him that he did not want such a house; Mr. Leslie very much wanted a cupola and a plan was prepared with one on, and tenders called for, with and without cupola; the lowest was that of Mr. Hamilton, $6,240; this without cupola, plastering, cornices, grates, plumbing, mantels, etc., a mere skeleton of a house; the extras Mr. Hamilton stated would be about $2,200 more. The plan was rejected because of the high price, and after some talk it was decided that a modified plan should be made; this excluded the cupola, grates, attic rooms, mantels, etc.; the instructions were for a nine roomed house, but they had been given seven rooms and two large closets; the fence erected is in a very shaky condition, and had been pronounced bad by competent mechanics. There was a fault also in the roof which he could not explain.

To Mr. Mills—It was quite true that my instructions to Mr. Leslie were for a house to cost $6,000; I have set apart $10,000 for the residence, which includes grounds, stabling, fencing, etc.

Mr. Mills here read from The Colonist which stated that Mr. Higgins was preparing a site for a residence in Regent Park to cost $10,000 and asked Mr. Higgins if that was a true statement?

Mr. Higgins replied certainly. By residence he did not mean the house alone.

John Munro, sworn, said that he was the contractor for Mr. Higgins' residence; there were errors in the plans, one in the main roof, which the witness explained to the jury as making an extra cost of about $60 for tin deck at roof; the stairs were either three steps short or over; the balance of the plans were about correct.

To Mr. Mills—Have been a builder and contractor for 17 or 18 years; have at one time been a schoolmaster; I asked Mr. Leslie for the detail drawings in order to continue the work, which he gave in part.

Mrs Higgins testified that it was expressely stated that the house was to cost $6000; this was before the first plan was made.

To Mr. Mills—Am quite certain that the house was to cost only $6000; the $10,000 referred to in the paper meant all expenditure necessary.

John Teague, architect, testified that the usual charge for work was 5 per cent., 2½ per cent. for plans and specifications, and 2½ per cent. for superintendence of work.

To Mr. Mills—No charge was made by him for details; he would not consider his plans perfect without details; these he furnished for the 2½ per cent; the two plans were distinct; the 2½ per cent. was generally paid when the contract was signed.

To Mr. Drake—My business dealings with Mr. Higgins have always been satisfactory; would not consider the first plan of any use to anyone.

To the Judge—In this particular case the first plan would be of some assistance in drawing the second plan. Witness here measured the plan where the roof was stated to be incorrect, and said that the plans were nearly correct.

Mr. Drake, in addressing the jury, stated that the first plans were not as ordered, and being modified, were accepted by Mr. Higgins; Mr. Leslie was not entitled to payment for the first plans nor for the detail drawings which Mr. Teague had shown were necessary to complete the plans; the $100 deposited in court Mr. Higgins considered covered the amount due Mr. Leslie for his plans, after deducting losses from various omissions which had been shown in evidence. He would ask the jury to return a verdict to that effect.

Mr. Mills, for the plaintiff, submitted two propositions, the first that the limit to the $6,000 had not been proved, and defendant had stated in his own paper that the house was to cost $10,000.

His Lordship—Fie, Mr. Mills! Does a mere skeleton of a house mean a residence? Are not many other things besides a house comprised in the term a residence?

Mr. Mills continued that the charges of plaintiff were in all respects reasonable and just, and claimed a verdict for the full amount.

His lordship said that Mr. Mills had not proved any decided custom; he had shown a variety of practice, but no decided customs. The charge for detailed plans was unreasonable, and would be not submitted to the jury. Mr. Teague had submitted his practice, and had stated that he would not consider his plans perfect unless he had furnished detailed plans, and would be ashamed to do otherwise. Plaintiff had no claim for the $78. The detailed plans also were made after the action had been commenced. Any one of the twenty grounds was enough to bowl the contention to the ground. The claim for $22 40 seems to be admitted. As to the other two items, $191 and $156, if the defendant had asked him to make plans unconditionally then he would be entitled to his 2½ per cent, but it had been said that his means would limit him to $6000; the plans were prepared and were found expensive, so a second plan was called for. For the first plan plaintiff was not entitled to pay; but the second plan should be paid for, and the 2½ per cent, or $156, paid. If the jury thought plaintiff was entitled to the first, then they would find $191; but for the second they could not find the full amount of $156, as the architect was undoubtedly greatly assisted by the first. They would also have to deduct from any verdict the amount lost by inaccuracies in the plan. If it was the contractors' fault, then the plaintiff would not have to suffer. There was an evident mistake in the size of the rooms, which were stated as 11x17 and were in reality about 8x17. If they thought the defendant entitled to damages for this they could give them; with regard to the $78 it was entirely a claim without foundation, and if a custom a very bad one.

The jury then retired and after an absence of 35 minutes returned with a verdict as follows: For No. 1 plan, $95; for fence $22.40; and for 2d plans, $156; in all $273

Smith & Clark vs. Erb & Johnson.—This was a test case brought to try the liability of the defendants for representations made as the plaintiffs asserted through advertisements inserted in The Colonist and other newspapers asking for tenders for erection of buildings on land belonging to the defendant Erb, and by statements made by the defendant Johnson to the plaintiffs to induce them to make a tender when the contract had been awarded to a firm for some days previously to the request for tenders. Some 14 contractors in all had made tenders on the strength of the representations. Messrs. Smith & Clark claimed as their damages, the cost of preparing plans and specifications.

After the evidence of Mr. Smith and Mr. Wraight and Mr. Erb who was called for the plaintiffs had been taken the case closed for the plaintiffs.

Mr. Taylor on behalf of the defendant Erb asked for a non-suit which was granted without argument of plaintiffs' counsel Mr. Theodore Davie.

His lordship then directed the jury to find a verdict for the defendant Johnson who appeared in person.

This was objected to by Mr. Davie, and after considerable argument a non-suit was directed to be entered for the defendant Johnson with leave to Mr. Davie to bring another suit.

The court then discharged the jury and adjourned.

The ship Perthshire, from the Columbia river to England, and loaded with flour and salmon, is reported to have gone ashore on Blind island, in Eagle pass, at Faulkland Islands, April 28th. Some time ago it was reported that the steamer Wilmington, owned by Frank Barnard, which was running from San Francisco to Victoria and Puget Sound ports, would be placed on an independent line between San Francisco and Portland. Owing, however, to the general depression in trade, and consequent poor prospect of a profitable outcome of the venture proposed, the plan has been abandoned. The steamer is now laid up in San Francisco bay, on the mud flats near Oakland, where she is likely to remain for some time undisturbed.

Sarah Althea Draws a Revolver.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 3.—The celebrated divorce case of Hill vs. Sharon, which is now going on under the reversed form of Sharon vs. Hill, in the United States circuit court, to have the alleged marriage contract declared void, was this afternoon again productive of an exciting incident, and which for a moment looked as though it would result in a tragedy. Testimony in the case was being taken before the master in chancery, when a number of photographs of various documents in possession of Miss Hill were exhibited. Judge Evans and ex-Senator Stewart, of counsel for Sharon, took exception to certain defects in the photographs and characterized them as unreliable. Miss Hill became greatly excited at their comments, and thrusting her hand into a satchel drew out a revolver, which she pointed at ex Senator Stewart, remarking if he continued in his strictures she would make him pay dearly for them. A general commotion followed. Master in Chancery Houghton advanced toward the lady, and urgently requested her to remain calm. He finally succeeded in obtaining possession of the revolver, and adjourned further hearing till to-morrow. Before he did so Miss Hill is stated to have remarked, "I am bound to kill Stewart before this trial is over, and I don't know but what I had better do it now. Application was immediately made to Judge Sawyer for a warrant for her arrest.

"FLIM-FLAMMING."

STOREKEEPERS CAUGHT BY A COMMON SWINDLING TRICK.

Scheme Which Sadly Bewilders the Shopman Who Is His Own Cashier—How Variations of the Game Are Worked.

[New York Herald.]

One of the many petty annoyances that storekeepers are subject to is the process of "flim-flamming." The word is not to be found in the dictionary, nor, for that matter, are some of the vigorous expressions made use of the victimized shopkeeper when he has been "flim-flammed." The trick is best explained by relating an instance in point that came under a reporter's observation. The reporter had purchased a weed in a cigar store, and while testing its drawing capacity there entered the store an Irish woman—apparently a respectable, honest, everyday working woman. She asked for two bags of smoking 'acco. They were wrapped up for her by the urbane storekeeper. She tendered a $2 bill and received in change, $1.84. Then began the "flim-flamming" device.

"My husband, sor, says these bags is two for 15 cints," she observed, "and you are charging me 16 cints, sor."

The proprietor assured her that the tobacco could not be sold at the price she stated.

"Then give me back my money. I won't take them," she replied.

The man did as she requested, she meanwhile retaining the $1.84 in change. Then came point No. 2 in the interesting swindle. In came a man with much bustle and asked for a penny box of matches, and tendered a quarter therefor. While the storekeeper was making change for the man, who was the confederate of the woman, and whose entry is always opportunely timed so as to divert the victim's attention while the first operator is making the final steps to get out with the goods, the change, and the original purchase money tendered, the woman kept harping on the dearness of the tobacco. The man having gone, the woman pointed to some other brands of tobacco on the shelves, and there ensued a conversation about prices of tobacco in general. The upshot was that the woman took up the original packages of tobacco and loftily remarked that after all "a cint was neither here nor there with her." Under cover of another customer who came in and who may or may not have been a confederate also the woman went out with two bags of tobacco, $1.84 in change and her own $2 bill. That is how the confiding shopkeeper is "flim-flammed."

The storekeeper, when told by the reporter that he was minus the $2 bill, just waited long enough to verify the fact, and then tore madly around the counter, dashed out of the door, glared wildly up and down the street, and, catching sight of the "flim-flammeuse" waddling hastily across the street, he gave chase, swooped down upon her, and made her return to the store, where, upon a threat of immediate arrest, she returned the change and the tobacco. It occurred to the reporter while the storekeeper was prancing down the street how easy it might have been for a third confederate to have been lurking around, waiting for just such a contingency as the proprietor's temporary vacation of the shop and profiting thereby "pull to the damper."

There are some variations to this "game," as, for instance, the "flim-flammer" might have asked for a dollar bill after the purchase, carelessly remarking that he or she didn't care "to be carting around so much small change." Having secured the $1 bill, the operator would hand back 84 cents. Of course the man behind the counter would say that the change was short of a dollar. The swindler would then loftily wish to know if the storekeeper was not aware that the price of the tobacco made up the sum lacking the round dollar. The victim now becomes nonplussed, and that is just the condition the schemer desires him to be in.

"No! no!" asseverates the storekeeper, who is now getting angry, with a faint glimmer dawning upon him that all is not right. More bickering follows, until the "flim-flammer" gets his subject properly worked up, and then comes the coup de grace. The rogue snatches up the bone of contention—the 84 cents remaining untouched upon the counter—and pulling out $1 throws it and the 84 cents and the tobacco down with a vicious slam, and vociferously demands his $2 bill, and intimates that he wants to get as far away as he can and as soon as he can from such a lunkhead of a storekeeper. The storekeeper, who is now at a white heat, generally gets caught at this juncture. He fires the $2 bill at his troublesome customer, a parting growl is exchanged, and the "flim-flammer" bolts out with his original $2 bill and the $1 bill the changing of which had caused all the final row. The game is worked in this way with from a 50 cent piece to a $10 bill.

The Great Seal of England.

[Foreign Letter.]

The great seal of England consists of two silver disks, closely fitting one to the other, in appearance not much unlike two bright tin saucepan lids without handles; and these disks, on being separated, would reveal on the inner surface of one a deeply-cut device of the queen enthroned, with representations of the cardinal virtues around her, and on the other her majesty sitting on a highly-caparisoned horse, attended by a page. These two silver disks are, in fact, the matrix by means of which is formed that enormous wax seal commonly known as the great seal of England, and which is affixed to acts of the sovereign which it is the royal pleasure publicly to make known.

Pegs Still Needed.

[Chicago Journal.]

That pegged shoes and boots are still quite extensively used might be inferred from the fact that a peg manufacturing company at Bartlett, N. H., is turning out the little wooden articles at the rate of 1,800 bushels a day, and has orders on hand that will require several months to fill.

The American anthracite stove has become the perfection of all that is convenient, economical and comfortable, but at the same time a grotesque and even hideous object to contemplate.
